

Gianni, Origoni, Grippo, Cappelli & Partners strengthens Litigation practice with new hire

The firm hires litigation expert Giovanni Polvani from Grimaldi

Rome, 20 January 2012 – The international law firm Gianni, Origoni, Grippo & Partners further strengthens its Litigation department with the arrival of Giovanni Polvani in the role of Of Counsel. With over 60 lawyers, among which 12 Partners and 3 Of Counsels, the firm's Litigation team, headed by GianBattista Origoni e Antonio Auricchio, is the today the largest Litigation department in Italy.

54 year-old Giovanni is a highly experienced litigation lawyer with a particular focus on International Arbitration. He is also an expert in telecommunications and in editorial law. He has advised many leading Italian and multinational companies in these industries, and was involved in the most important privatization deals in Italy.

Giovanni graduated in Law from the University of Rome in 1981 and received, on a Fulbright Scholarship, his Master of Comparative Jurisprudence from the New York University (USA).

Tomaso Cenci, Managing Partner of Gianni, Origoni, Grippo, Cappelli & Partners, said: "We are very happy to welcome Giovanni on board. He is a valuable addition to our Litigation team and will further enhance the firm's position as the leading legal adviser on complex litigation deals and international arbitrations. This hiring is part of the firm's ongoing development and highlights our commitment to servicing our clients in the best way possible."
